ATTORNEY SAID CONCENTRATED EFFORT WOULD CAUSE A NERVOUS CONDITION THAT MIGHT BE FATAL.

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 6.—William Rockefeller's attorney told the interstate commerce commission that Mr.
Rockefeller was so ill that it would be dangerous for him to testify in the New Haven inquiry. The attorney said that concentrated effort would cause a nervous condition that might prove fatal. It would be impossible for Mr. Rockefeller to write his answers, since he was afflicted with palsy, said the lawyer. Counsel Folk asked if Rockefeller attended the recent New Haven board meeting. The attorney replied that such attendance was largely formal and involved no nervous strain.

BELIEVES IN SPIRITS.

It is evident from a recent amendment to the Massachusetts act that the members of the legislature of that state either are believers in spirits, ghosts and similar superstitions, or that they have been used by the clairvoyants as a means to an end.

According to the Journal of the American Medical Association, the act was recently amended by the following: "Nothing in this act shall be held to apply to registered pharmacists, registered dentists or registered optometrists, or to restrain the practice of clairvoyance, hypnotism or mind cure, or to apply to any person who administers to or treats the sick or the suffering by mental or spiritual means without the use of drugs or material remedies."

Before the adoption of this amendment the Massachusetts law was opposed to the unlicensed practice of the healing art by any save the regularly licensed physicians who were graduates of a reputable medical college and who were able to pass a rigid examination in medicine by capable examiners.

But it should be remembered that Boston is the home of the Christian Science cult, and that there are many thousands of believers in the peculiar faith of Mrs. Eddy who are residents of that state as well as of other states in New England.

As to the permission to practice thus freely given clairvoyants by the amended law, it should not be necessary to state that every big city in the East is (or has been) overrun with this class of gentry, and that by the money they have been enabled to make by their illegal practices they could probably yield an important political influence.

A further amendment to the law defines the practice of medicine so as to restrict it very largely to those claiming to be scientifically educated and qualified physicians. So that the illegal act would not consist in treating disease without proper qualifications and authority, but in falsely claiming to be a legally qualified medical practitioner.

It is evident that the conflicting statutes in the various states regarding the qualifications required to permit one to practice medicine would indicate the necessity of a uniform law, whether by the various states in union, or by the federal government. In some states the laws are so lax that a so-called "college of medicine" can turn out the graduates by wholesale, with as little as six weeks of study, and one or two even permit the study of "medicine" by correspondence course.

For the safety of the public a strict law regarding the licensing of medical practitioners is absolutely necessary. The mere fact that the head of a family may believe in Christian Science, or clairvoyance, or any other of the numerous "systems" of curing the sick does not lessen his responsibility for the lives of those under him. Cases of severe epidemics of contagious diseases might originate from the improper treatment of the original source of the epidemic, and society at large would be the sufferer. And who is there who would dare to say that a case of small-pox, for instance, could be successfully treated by clairvoyance, hypnotism or even Christian Science?

The practice of medicine has come to be a more exact science than ever before, and the proper treatment of disease is practically the same by all modern schools of medicine, the reputable schools, that is. And a community which has an educated, modern doctor is far more liable to be immune from epidemics than one which depends upon a fortune-teller or a mind-cure "expert."

SEEKING THE RIGHT MAN.

The city of Terrell is working under a new charter, and the commissioners have had difficulty in securing the right kind of a man for city manager. However, they are determined to employ no one until they find the kind of a man they want, and as the charter empowers them to pay from $1,800 to $2,500 a year for a manager, they feel that they ought to get a good one for the pay permitted.

The city manager idea has proven such a success where tried in this country that it bids fair to become the popular form of managing a city's affairs. In Germany, where the city manager has been tried for many years, the people would be very much amused over our system of electing a man because he is a popular party leader to run the business of the city.

The Germans employ men who have made a study of civic management, men who know to a few cents what it ought to cost to conduct the various departments of city activity, and who have qualified themselves to become city managers in the same way that the graduates of a good business school have qualified themselves to become bookkeepers or stenographers.

That a man may be "loyal to the party" or that he may have the following of a majority of the people of the city matters not to the shrewd German folk. They satisfy his ambition by recommending him for a decoration or for a high-sounding title, and—there hire a man to look after their business. Which is so eminently practical that any other system appears ridiculous.

The salient features of Terrell's new charter are: Five commissioners, elected by the people, are also the city secretary, tax assessor and recorder, city attorney and city recorder. All other officials are appointive.

The city manager, who is hired by the commissioners, controls the sanitary, fire and public utilities departments, the city owning the light and waterworks plant.

The charter calls for compulsory education, the recall and initiative and referendum, and limits franchises to thirty years, except interurban, whose limit may be fifty years.

Authority is given to appropriate funds for a municipal band, and to establish parks and appoint park boards, while the tax rate, exclusive of special taxes, is limited to $1.95 on the $100.

A novel feature is that of loans to individuals who are unable to build their own sidewalks, the money being loaned for ten years at 6 per cent. It will be seen that by his control of the sanitary, fire and public utilities departments the city manager has it within his power to handle the city's affairs economically and in a business fashion, without any red tape or interference. If he is not satisfactory, he may be discharged and other man employed, which will tend to make his work more careful than that of a man who is merely elected for a term of years and who cannot be displaced until his time is up.

There are many features about the Terrell charter which will be watched with interest by other cities. The success of the new system in Terrell will no doubt cause other places to try the same system, as there are many cities throughout Texas which are at present having much annoyance from their archaic methods of handling the city's business, and if a better plan can be demonstrated they will be likely to try it.

It is expected that Huerta's gunboats will attempt to blockade Tampico, and the American admirals have been notified. Just what they will do if the gunboats menace the Cuban vessel carrying arms to rebels is not known. But they probably won't hesitate long.

One of the interstate commerce commissioners, called Director Skinner of the New Haven "rubber stamp director." Some of the others appear to have made a noise like a waste basket.

Even the path of the great singers is not always a bed of roses. Madame Schumann-Heink accuses her husband of infidelity and wants a divorce from him. Judging from her pictures, the madame appears to be "vox et preterea nihil," and perhaps the man was an admirer of beauty.

The constitutionalists appear to be wasting their time. They captured a federal prison the other day. Now if it had been a cemetery that would have been something like it, but what do they want of a prison?

A grateful miner gave the widow of a man who had befriended him $50,000 in return for $50 advanced him forty years ago. But even that does not make us sorry that we refused to grubstake a man who has a "rich Mexican mine."

Rockefeller's pastor is to receive a protest against his defending the oil magnate's policy in the Colorado strike. But all the protests in the world will not weigh against that fat salary which is paid for looking after the spiritual end of the Rockefeller business.

TRAINS OPERATING REGULARLY

Passenger Service Between Nuevo Laredo and Monterey is Again Resumed With Regularity.

Train service on the National Lines of Mexico, or rather the constitutionalist lines of Mexico, is now operating with old-time regularity between Nuevo Laredo and Monterey, and at the latter point connection is being made for points further south in Mexico.

Passenger service was resumed about two weeks ago, but for several days there was no regularity in operation, but during the past few days the trains have been operating each way with precision, except in a few instances arrivals of trains are belated an hour or so, but that is close enough to be termed "schedule time."

Quite a large number of refugees who have been in this city for several months past have availed themselves of the opportunity to return to their homes in Monterey and elsewhere, while many who wanted to get to the border are now coming into Nuevo Laredo and thence to this city. Trains each way now are accommodating large numbers of passengers, while mail from points in Northern Mexico is being brought into Nuevo Laredo and later transferred to this city.

GILBERT R. WILSON, Secretary.

MRS. FLORENCE M. REID DEAD

Good and Noble Woman Passed to Her Eternal Reward at Her Home in This City Last Evening.

The Angel of Death entered a home last evening and took therefrom a good and noble woman and with her soul took its flight to that realm where the faithful and sanctified find eternal rest; where the deeds of goodness performed in this transitory vale are recorded in the book of life and where the Omnipotent Father bids his sentinel usher forth the pure and best of his children to appear before His throne. When on last evening the soul of this good and philanthropic woman left its citadel of pain and suffering, and on subtle wings took its flight to the happy home above, tears of anguish at her departure, grief for her absence and heart throbs for the lips that were still were manifest.

When on last evening at 7:59 o'clock Mrs. Florence McNeil Reid closed her eyes in eternal slumber and the lips that had always spoken words of cheer and encouragement were sealed, the hands that were never slow to assist the needy and the heart that pulsated with sympathy for the unfortunate had ceased their work, a good and noble woman, a devoted mother and a true philanthropist passed to her reward. For the past two years Mrs. Reid had been in impaired health, but was able to be about, and as principal of the Central school she was able to fill her position up to the close of the session two weeks ago. Beloved by those under her supervision at the school her cheerful smile and kindly words of greeting will be missed as likewise in the home and family circle.

The subject of this sketch, Mrs. Florence McNeil Reid, was born in Columbus, Texas, on November 5, 1845, being in her 69th year at the time of her demise. In November, 1865, she was married in San Antonio to Oliver P. Reid. In 1878 Mr. and Mrs. Reid moved to Laredo and for the past 25 years have made their home in this city, the husband preceding the good wife to the grave about two years ago. For a number of years Mrs. Reid was a teacher in the Laredo public schools, a portion of the time filling the position of principal of the Central school, in which latter capacity she was acting when the last session terminated.

Deceased is survived by one brother, T. P. McNeil of Live Oak county, one daughter, Mrs. E. J. Williams, of Monterey, who was here when the end came; a niece, Mrs. M. E. Pinder, and a number of grandchildren and other relatives. To all these go the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

Deceased was a devout member of the Episcopal church and the funeral will take place from the home, 712 Lincoln street, to the Episcopal church this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, with interment in the family burial plot by the side of the late husband.

Civil Service Examination.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination for immigrant inspector for men only on June 17, 1914, at Laredo, Texas. From the register of eligibles resulting from this examination certification will be made to fill vacancies as they may occur in the position of immigrant inspector and Chinese inspector in the Immigration Service Department of Labor, at entrance salaries of $1,230 a year, and vacancies as they may occur in positions requiring similar qualifications, unless it is found to be in the interest of the service to fill any vacancy by reinstatement, transfer or promotion.

Persons interested may apply to Mr. Thos. Worsham at the Custom House for further information.

Indigestion and Constipation.
"About five years ago I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets after suffering indigestion and constipation for years without finding anything to relieve me. Chamberlain's Tablets helped me at once and by using them for several weeks I was cured of the complaint," writes Mary E. McMullen, Phelps, N. Y. For sale by all dealers.

Asks Assistance of Ladies.

The ladies committee having in charge the work of soliciting cakes from the ladies of the city for the lawn party and festival to be given the soldiers Monday evening, requests the Times to state that they have made every effort to visit different sections of the city, but owing to the limited time they had they may have unintentionally overlooked many who would only be too glad to assist, and therefore they request these ladies to make cakes and cooperate with the committee in the work. Those having cakes for the lawn party and festival are requested to send them to the Chamber of Commerce rooms by 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, where the ladies committee will receive them.

FORMER POLICEMAN ARRESTED

Fernando Vazquez Told the Times of His Arrest While Visiting Nuevo Laredo.

The following statement was made to the Times by Fernando Vazquez, concerning his imprisonment by the authorities of Nuevo Laredo:

"Last Sunday, May 31, I went to Nuevo Laredo on business with Sr. Leonardo Saenz. As I was crossing the bridge, I heard a voice, making obscene and insulting remarks to me. Upon turning to see who it was, I was surprised to find Antonio, a person known on this side as a horse tamer who owes me $5 gold. I asked what he wanted, and he answered, 'Nothing.' I continued on my way, and a few minutes after arriving at the house of Sr. Saenz I was arrested and taken before Major Soto, who I am sorry to say should not have the office which he holds, for that individual used language to me which is impossible to repeat. I was taken to a cell and placed incommunicado, without even water to drink. The room was dirty and unhygienic. I passed the night and the next day until 6 o'clock p. m. when I secured my liberty through the efforts of my family. Sunday night no one was able to do anything for me, for the officials to whom my relatives went said they were too busy with the fiesta which was being given in honor of the generals, and besides they were obliged to bring my case before the investigating committee. So I remained a prisoner until 6 p. m. Monday, because of some calumnies. I believe it would be well for the principal officials of Nuevo Laredo to select persons of more education, for they would take care what they did. I do not owe anything to them, for having treated me in this manner, but on the contrary they owe something to me. I must say that I owe eternal gratitude to Melquades Garcia and to Consul Garrett for my liberty."

FUNERAL OF MEN KILLED AT VERA CRUZ

CONFEDERATE MEMORIAL UNVEILED.

Washington, D. C., June 4.—Standing where he could overlook the graves of 20,000 of the country's dead, where the wearers of the blue and the wearers of the gray sleep side by side, President Wilson today accepted on behalf of the people of the United States the handsome memorial erected in the Arlington National Cemetery to the Confederate soldiers who are buried there.

The unveiling of the memorial was made the occasion for an impressive demonstration in which veterans of the South and veterans of the North participated alike with an energy and enthusiasm which defied the life-sapping years that have gone since they bore arms on opposing sides in the greatest conflict in American history.

The ceremonies were simple but impressive in the extreme. Col. Hilary A. Herbert, former Secretary of the Navy and chairman of the commission in charge of the erection of the memorial, presided over the exercises. In a short address Col. Herbert formally delivered the monument to Mrs. Daisy McLaurin Stevens, representing the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mrs. Stevens in turn presented the memorial to President Wilson, as the representative of the nation.

In addition to President Wilson the speakers and other leading participants in the ceremonies included Gen. Bennett H. Young of Kentucky, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, and Col. Washington Gardner of Michigan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Added to the delegations of Confederate veterans who came from nearly every State of the South were many Union veterans from the District of Columbia, from Maryland, Pennsylvania and the neighboring States. Foreign diplomats, members of the cabinet, representatives of patriotic organizations and several hundred senators and representatives occupied seats on the stands erected about the memorial.

The drawing aside of the veil which drained the principal figure of the monument was the signal for an outburst of cheering, which was swollen to thunderous applause by the songs and daughters of the veterans. Tears dimmed the eyes and coursed down the cheeks of the old soldiers, and their emotion-choked voices would have been but a feeble effort had it not been for the assistance given by a younger and homelier-paying generation.

Touching sentiment was heard on every side and the thanks of the North and South alike were offered by the orators of the occasion to the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during my time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

whose work it was that made the memorial project an accomplished fact.

The monument erected in honor of the memory of the Confederate dead is one of the most interesting, dignified and conspicuous memorials in the famous cemetery, where stand scores of simple shafts and towering monuments put up in honor of the soldier dead, where Revolutionary veterans lie under the same trees that shelter their descendants killed in the Philippine Islands, where sailors who served on the Constitution sleep side by side with the victims of the Maine, and where such famous wearers of the gray as Gen. Joseph Wheeler lie buried within sight of the last resting places of such equally famous wearers of the blue as Sheridan, Crook and Schofield.

The Confederate memorial was erected at a cost of $50,000, the greater part of which was raised through the efforts of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. It was designed by the American sculptor, Sir Moses Ezekiel, himself a Southerner who served in the Confederate army and in later years the designer of monuments to the famous leaders of the "Lost Cause," that adorn public grounds and buildings in Richmond, Louisville and a number of other cities of the South. The sculptor, who has long resided in Italy, came over especially to attend the unveiling of the Arlington memorial and was an honored guest at today's ceremonies.

The monument, which is entirely of bronze, has thirty-two life-sized figures in full relief around a cylindrical base, on which stands the chief figure, a heroic-sized woman, right hand extended, holding a laurel wreath, with the left resting upon a plow stock, on which is a sickle, and underneath a quotation from Isaiah: "They have beaten their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks."

The base of the monument is of bronze, with palm on the sides, which gives added relief to the life-sized statues. In addition to the statues there are bronze shields representing the States of the Confederacy and several bronze tablets bearing suitable inscriptions.

Washington, June 4.—William Skinner, a New Haven director, testified that he took the accounting department's word in transactions involving millions.

"Then you were merely a rubber stamp director?" asked an interstate commerce commission questioner. Skinner answered that he could not investigate details. The questioner asked if Skinner thought it was right to create public sentiment by deception.

"With all the hue and cry against railroads they must create sentiment," he replied. Skinner said that the interlocking directorate gave the public better service.

Skinner said that he did not remember Morgan trying to dominate, but added that he (Skinner) was in Europe most of the time.

Louis Cass Lelyard was called but not sworn. He said that he desired to contradict certain statements made by Mr. Mellen in his testimony.

THE PEACE PARLEYS.

Venustiano Carranza has adopted a new tack in his attempt to prevent the success of the mediation now under way. Through an open letter which his representatives have sent to the American press, he is trying to ridicule the mediation program, while at the same time he is making every effort to enter the negotiations. The mediators are determined that he shall not be admitted to the conferences save on the terms which they offered him at the first, and which he seems equally determined not to accept.

While the United States government seems very desirous that he should be admitted, it is stated that the request will not be insisted upon should the mediators not see their way clear to granting it, and that whatever the mediators decide upon will be accepted by our government.

Carranza persists in misapprehending (or pretending to misunderstand) the attitude of the mediators, and states that they are "permitting the conquered to dictate terms to the conquerors," while in reality Huerta representatives have not been able to even resist the demands of the mediators, much less make demands of their own.

The insistence of the mediators to consider the agrarian question is the main stumbling block to Carranza. He claims that this question cannot be decided by anyone but himself, and he claims that as, but for the "physical obstacle of the destruction of the railroads," he would be in Mexico City in a week, everything of an internal nature should be left to him and his advisers.

On the contrary, the mediators state that they are convinced that the capture of Mexico City is still months away, if indeed Carranza ever captures it, and therefore he has no right as yet to demand to enter the conference save on the terms originally offered him.

Carranza's assumption of the role of conqueror, following upon his proclaiming himself the provisional president of Mexico, has not gained for him the consideration of the mediators. It has simply made him even more ridiculous, if that were possible, than before.

The mediators state that they are able to consider the claims of the constitutionalists in the matter of their share of the government of Mexico without any representation from that party. So far as the question of dictation arises, there is but one party to the conference that is in a position to dictate, and that is the United States.

The claim that two-thirds of Mexico is in the hands of the rebels is not borne out by any statement of conditions existing throughout the republic. At present the border towns do not constitute a possession of any value whatever. The rebels are not permitted to get arms from this country, and with the exception of the small amount of customs duties which the border towns give them, they might as well be abandoned. Tampico is of doubtful value to the rebels at present. There is no commerce and no industry which will bring them in a dollar. Torreon, Saltillo, Monterrey and Durango have been ruined by the fighting and the campaign of robbery which has been carried on, and their possession is costing money which the rebels can ill afford.

The attacks on Zacatecas and San Luis Potosi will cost more in ammunition than they can well afford to lose, and for a campaign against Mexico City they have none at all.

It would seem to be a good time for Carranza to get down from his high horse. While it is not lofty enough for a fall to do him much damage, still the loss of prestige would place him where he was before, in the position of an unknown, unimportant and impotent man, a terror to no one, an object of pitiful ridicule to all.

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT.

The action of the city council last night in authorizing the construction of three storm sewers is a step in the right direction, and it will give relief to the greater part of the citizens, who have often wondered why a city lying so far above natural drainage should be for a great part of the time, particularly after a heavy rain, in the condition of a swamp.

There are, perhaps, few cities in Texas which are better equipped by nature for the drainage of storm water. A profile map of the city shows that the slope toward the river is continuous, and the bed of the river is far below our lowest street level.

It should be no great engineering feat to design a system of storm sewers which should keep our streets dry at all times. Our rains are never heavy, as compared with places on the coast, and the amount of water which needs to be carried off is never excessive.

Cities without our natural advantages have well drained streets, and it is rare to find a city of this size anywhere in the country so poorly equipped for artificial drainage, even where Nature has done so much less for the people than she has here.

It is to be hoped that the storm sewers are but entering wedges for a complete system of sanitary sewers, which are badly needed, and which could be constructed and maintained at little cost compared to the great advantages secured.

Without the sanitary and storm sewers the question of paving is best left alone. To construct pavements which would have to be torn up at some future time for the construction of sanitary sewers would be unwise and unwarranted.

Yet it is certain that we need pavements, crossings and gutters. There is not a single person who is obliged to leave the house in these days who is not convinced of the absolute necessity for pavements.

It need not be stated that a good pavement can be constructed and maintained without going to the costly extreme of putting down asphalt at an enormous cost. Other cities have done without asphalt for many years, and yet they have had adequate pavements.

It has been frequently stated that while asphalt is the costliest to construct, it is the best in the end, and that it does not cost much to maintain. This is not definitely established.

Many cities have found that the asphalt is the costliest pavement of all the materials than can be used, and the cost of maintenance is in proportion as great as that of installation.

The present makeshift pavement for our main streets should be done away with. It is expensive to maintain, it is never of any value, and during a season of wet weather it has proved worse than a country dirt road.

Any pavement that could be devised would seem to be better than what we now have. The vitrified brick that has been suggested by some would appear to be the most satisfactory, considering its cost, of all materials obtainable. There are many others which would be better than the soft, muddy stretches of street which now render traffic so burdensome and walking impossible.

Let the good work go on. Finish the storm sewers; plan and construct a system of sanitary sewers which will serve the whole city, and the paving will follow in due course. Laredo is advancing.

Roosevelt is to be treated the same in France as a foreign ruler. That will insure a certain measure of respect for the claimed discovery of the River of Doubt.

Again there is revolution in Santo Domingo—or is it yet? But so far there has been no blockade of the Dominican ports. The black republic will soon be claiming unjust discrimination against its principal industry.

Fort Worth has discovered a new way of killing people. An Oklahoma City man while there alleged that he had been fed poisoned candy, and he died soon after making the charge. Perhaps he wasn't used to candy, and it killed him.

Chicago is blaming labor troubles for a falling off in the marriage license market. That would seem to be a good time to get married, for you know two can live as cheaply as one.

A California volcano is threatening eruption after centuries of quiet. Perhaps it has been aroused to action by the present Mexican crisis.

An American alleged to be a leper escaped from quarantine and took up his residence in the hotel where Vice President Marshall stops. One would think he would have been safe from discovery there, but even that comparative obscurity did not avail him and he was arrested.

It is hardly likely that the style of an opener that ripped up the Empire of Ireland will come into popular use. That's what comes from diverting a thing from its proper use, and if the Stordad's anchor had been where it ought to be in a for, nearly a thousand people might still be living.

BLUE AND GRAY TO JOIN IN EXERCISES.

Washington, D. C., June 2.—The blue and the gray will join in the notable programme of exercises that is to be carried out at the Arlington National Cemetery on the occasion of the unveiling of the imposing monument which has been erected to the Confederate dead who are buried there. The final details of the unveiling programme were arranged today. Col. Hilary A. Herbert, former Secretary of the Navy and chairman of the monument committee, will preside at the exercises. President Wilson will be the principal speaker. As guests of honor will be Gen. Bennett Young of Kentucky, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, and Washington Gardner of Michigan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. The national heads of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Sons of Confederate Veterans also will be present. Hundreds of civil war veterans from Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina and other States will attend the unveiling.

The monument to the Confederate dead was erected through the efforts of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, which raised a fund of $50,000 for the purpose. It was designed and executed by the American sculptor, Sir Moses Ezekiel, himself a Southerner who served in the Confederate army in his early youth and was graduated the year after the close of the war from the Virginia Military Institute. The Arlington memorial has received the unanimous praise of the art critics and others who have been permitted to view it.

ROOSTER DAY.

Rooster Day has been designated by the A. & M. College of Texas, the day for the wholesale slaughter of the useless rooster to occur on June 20th if the plans of the animal husbandry department at the College are carried out. The rooster is classed as an undesirable, especially during warm weather, and C. N. Kennedy, college expert in poultry matters, has announced June 20th as the official killing day. Efforts will be made to have every rooster slaughtered to the end that infertile eggs, the only practical egg for cold storage and summer consumption may be plentiful in Texas. Mr. Kennedy has pointed out a large number of reasons why 150,000,000 males should be killed and those interested in this matter may be given the benefit of his experience by addressing him at College Station.

WALKED OFF OF ZACATE BRIDGE

Man Was Going Home When Lights Confused Him and He Walked Off Structure and Broke His Arm.

Last night a man named Thompson, who resides at a place east of the city, met with a painful accident while wending his way homeward. He says he had lost his spectacles and when he reached the Zacate bridge he was confused by the glare of the lights and accidentally walked off the Zacate bridge, being precipitated violently to the bed of the creek.

He broke his left arm at the wrist and then walked to a drug store and summoned a physician and had the injured member set, after which he left for his home, which is near the Burr place east of the city. The fracture was an ugly one, but was soon put in shape again.

FARMERS AND STOCKMEN HAPPY

Heavy Downpours of the Past Month Have Contributed to Improving Range and Helping Crops.

According to parties reaching here both by train and private conveyances from the country in all directions from Laredo copious showers have been general throughout this entire section during the past week. In fact farmers and stockmen report that the precipitation for the month of May has been heavier than in any previous month in many years.

The excessive rains have conduced to great good to both stockmen and farmers, as the ranges are covered with fresh, nutritious grasses and farmers having cotton, corn and cane crops report that more propitious prospects than those which now prevail could not be had.

Chimney Fire Last Night.

An alarm of fire was sounded for the first time last night about 10 o'clock, but the alarm should have been for the fourth ward. It is said that the rope to the fire bell gave way after one tap and this accounted for the ringing of the alarm for the first time. It developed that the so-called fire was a blaze caused by a dirty chimney in the vicinity of the flour mill, and the only damage resulted was the burning out of the soot and saving the owner of the house the expense of having the chimney cleaned. However, there should be a law requiring brick chimneys to be cleaned out at least once in twenty years, for soot will gather in that time.

MEETING OF LADIES WAS HELD

Which Citizens Will Tender Soldiers Next Monday Night.

CLOSE OF FIRE QUEEN CONTEST

Popularity Contest Will Come to Close Tonight at 10 O'clock; Leaders Are Closely Bunched.

A well attended and enthusiastic meeting of Laredo ladies was held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the session being called to order by and presided over by Dr. C. F. Kennedy, president of the local commercial organization.

At this meeting the matter of providing for the entertainment of the soldier boys was discussed and the ladies perfected details whereby the proposition will be handled in a systematic manner and made one of the most successful events of the kind ever held in the state. Cognizance was taken of the fact that to entertain from 1500 to 2000 soldiers necessitated perfecting plans to be carried out without a hitch and this the ladies planned for.

Home-made cakes in abundance will be made, various sections of the city will be handled by committees and the ladies of Laredo will be given an opportunity to assist in the laudable undertaking. The ice cream and refreshments which will be served, have all been provided for, and there is no reason why the ladies of Laredo should not acquit themselves with pride on the occasion of the big lawn party, for they have left nothing undone to make it what it should be.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Texas-Mexican Railway Company will be held at the company's office, Laredo, Texas, June 24th, 1914, at 9:00 a. m. for the purpose of electing directors and the transaction of such business as may be brought before the meeting.

The board of directors will also hold meeting immediately after adjournment of stockholders.

There are three candidates closely bunched, but a fourth may come to the front at the last moment and cause a big surprise, if calculations do not go amiss. The final voting will be done after 6 o'clock this evening, in the office of Manager Weber of the telephone company, the contest closing promptly at 10 o'clock. AN OBJECT LESSON.

When the American occupation of Vera Cruz began, the Mexicans were given an object lesson on "The Benefits of Being Conquered," says Jack London in Collier's. And it may be said that they have taken kindly to the lesson, more kindly than they ever did to some of the lessons taught by their Spanish conquerors and their successors.

One of the first lessons was that there was to be no grafting on the merchants by the officers of soldiers. This was in such direct opposition to their former experience—which has been exemplified in Nuevo Laredo by both factions—that they were loath to believe that there was nothing sinister behind the fair treatment.

But the merchants have found that they may conduct their business in perfect security, and that if Uncle Sam or any of his representatives want anything, it will be paid for, and in good coin, at that.

Many of the Mexicans were looking to see the familiar firing squads lined up and they expected executions by wholesale. But they were pleasantly surprised to find that there were no "fusilamientos," and that a Mexican was safer under the American rule than he was under that of his own countrymen.

Rather to the surprise of some of the natives, the churches were not closed, and many of the soldiers and sailors went to mass when their duties allowed. Still more surprising, there was no "contribucion" levied on the priests, and the Americans donated, instead of taking money for the church.

The object lesson in cleaning and disinfecting the city was perhaps the most striking of all. The city was given such a scrubbing and cleansing as it had never before witnessed, and its spick and span appearance caused no little wonder on the part of the natives.

Those who had property—particularly horses and mules, which were needed by the forces of occupation—expected to have them confiscated, as had been the custom there from time immemorial. They were agreeably surprised to find that all such property was purchased at a good price—in fact, at practically what ever price was demanded. And now everybody wants to have the government take his stock and carts.

The plazas are crowded with a heterogeneous collection of international refugees, coming from all over Mexico, and nowhere is there a word against the Americans. All unite in praising their courtesy, their invariable kind treatment of all, from the lowest peon to the highest aristocrat.

The soldiers and sailors furnish their own food, and divide what is left with the beggars. If they take a fancy to anything in the market they buy and pay for it, instead of seizing it as their right, as was the custom of the Mexican "mochos."

Which is all in direct contrast to the Mexicans who are at present occupying the neighboring city of Nuevo Laredo, as well as to those who held the place from the downfall of the Madero government to a month ago.

It is not surprising that the people of Vera Cruz are praying that the American occupation may continue indefinitely. It is probable that a vote there would be in favor of the occupation of the entire republic, as the people are now enjoying more liberty than they ever had and they have had enough had treatment to appreciate the good.

CHURCH AND STATE.

The wisdom of the fathers of Texas was shown in their provision to prevent an official union of Church and State by declaring in the constitution of the Republic of Texas, adopted in 1836, that "no minister of the gospel, or priest, of any denomination, shall be eligible to the office of the Executive of the Republic nor to a seat in either branch of the Congress of the same."

After Texas became a state of the Union in 1845 the newly adopted constitution barred ministers and priests from a seat in the legislature. And the constitution of 1866 made the same provision.

In 1868, under carpet-bagger domination, says State Topics, the assistance of the carpet-bagger preachers, who were numerous in Texas at that time, was needed by the government, and hence the constitution of that year gave them every possible latitude.

In 1876 the eagerness of those who formed the constitutional convention to destroy the work of carpet-bagger despotism was so great that they overlooked the old constitutions and that is given as the reason, according to Jeff. McEmore, why the question of providing against a union of Church and State was overlooked.

What, or the reason, the amended constitution did not prohibit the union of the Church with the State, which every other constitution in this country does, and today Texas is menaced with a control of her policies by certain elements of religious life which threaten to disrupt the state.

The ancient constitutions of Texas gave as their reason for not permitting religious domination of the state the following: "Ministers of the Gospel, being by their profession devoted to God and the care of souls, ought not to be diverted from the great duties of their functions."

This is a truth so self-evident to all, that it is strange that any one should deny it. Yet, nevertheless, some of the prominent ministers of the gospel in Texas are at the present time being "diverted from the great duties of their functions," and are even using their pulpits, not to discuss questions of religious belief, but to inculcate morality and good living, but to teach the lessons of political domination through the power which the church gives them.

At no time in the history of the United States, or of the colonies from which the states were formed, was there a period so dangerous to liberty as the period when the Puritan church of New England dominated by its laws the acts of the people of those colonies. Liberty of thought and action was absolutely throttled, and the founder of the Baptist church in this country, Roger Williams, was banished from their midst because he dared to believe in a form of baptism which was not accepted of the narrow-minded Puritans who left England for the sake of religious freedom.

These same Puritans were the ones who fostered the slave trade and who had the monopoly of the trade in rum and molasses from the West Indies, while teaching that it was sinful to kiss one's wife on the Sabbath, although it was inadmissible to sell human flesh and blood on the week days.

"By their works ye shall know them," we are told, and if these same ministers of the gospel who are thus being "diverted from the great duties of their functions" are to retain the respect of the people for their priestly or ministerial functions, they will have to change their tactics and not try to dominate the state by the power of the church.

The Colorado river is again on the rampage, and the people of Ray City are taking refuge in high buildings, as the city is under water. It is strange that those people cannot see the manifold advantages of living in the Laredo section.

As was to have been expected, the officers of the sinking Empress of Ireland showed a high degree of bravery and self-sacrifice, as did also the Salvation Army men. But the pinnacle of abnegation was reached by Laurence Irving, who died with his wife because both could not be saved. They died in each other's arms, which, after all, is almost as satisfactory a form of dying as one could wish for.

There may be a gruesome solution of the mystery surrounding the case of little Catherine Winters, the daughter of the Indiana dentist who has been searching for her all over the country. Partly burned clothing, supposed to be that of the child, was found sealed in a wall at the residence of the father, and the parents have been arrested.

A report comes from Tampico that the rebels have begun their attack on San Luis Potosi. But, so many rebel reports have turned out to be misleading, that one is rather apt to believe Villa's statement that the attack will not be made until he gets there.

An American named Sims disappeared from Salina Cruz more than two weeks ago, and now an investigation is to be made as to his whereabouts. Don't they realize that a body decomposed very rapidly at this time of year and in that climate?

POLITICAL BOSS TO LEAVE PRISON.

Trenton, N. J., May 30.—Half a dozen former public officials and political leaders of New Jersey are to be released from the State Prison tomorrow as a result of the commutation of their sentences by the Court of Pardons. PRINCESS YOLANDE

Princess Yolande, the eldest child of the King and Queen of Italy, was born June 1, 1901. The young princess is said to have inherited the good looks of her mother, who is one of the most beautiful women of the royal families of Europe. The princess has two sisters and one brother, the latter being Prince Humbert, heir apparent to the throne, who is now in his tenth year.

Princess Yolande has received an excellent education and speaks several foreign languages as fluently as her native tongue. Last year she made her first appearance in public, when she christened a new battleship of the Italian navy at its launching at Castellammare.

EL PASO PRAISE.

Amador Sanchez is his name. Race and nationality? He is an American, now and forever. Sanchez is Sheriff of Webb County, Texas, in which is Laredo. Recently he issued to the people of Webb County a proclamation which is so apt, so patriotic, so well conceived, so sincerely worded, so pregnant with sound social and political philosophy, that it deserves to become a border classic, and to be preserved in the State archives.

The proclamation applies as well to every point along this border for 2000 miles in four States, as to Laredo and Webb County. It would not be amiss for every Sheriff and every newspaper along this border from the Pacific Ocean to the Gulf of Mexico, to give publicity and sanction to such an announcement as that of Amador Sanchez in Laredo, which we have reprinted both because it deserves it and also because the general spread of such sentiments cannot but help to conserve peace and order along this border while the two Governments carry on their quarrel.—El Paso Herald.

Fine for the children. They like to take it.

(Adv.)

When constipation is having its evil effects on your body and brain, Nature is doing her best to offset them and overcome the cause itself. But usually Nature cannot do this unaided.

In the past, many sufferers at such a time used to turn to dangerous calomel in hope of relief. For some people calomel does appear to give a temporary benefit, but as a matter of fact it is a poison that proves to be injurious and even dangerous to many. If you have ever taken calomel you probably have suffered from evil conditions following its use.

But nowadays great numbers of people have learned how to feel better, brighter and healthier by taking Dodson's Liver Tonic instead of calomel. Indeed, this harmless vegetable liquid is recommended and guaranteed by City Drug Co. and by Windsor Drug Co. who will refund the purchase price to you without question if you are not completely satisfied with it.

JUDGE MULLALLY USES ART. 33

Mexican Statute Pertaining to Pernicious Foreigners Invoked in District Court Here.

Judge J. F. Mullally, the inexorable presiding officer of the district court of the 79th judicial district of Texas, is the Nemesis to the Moeztzman exiles who have laid heavy hands on the shoulders of Americans in the land of Huerta. And when there is no statutory measure in the Texas legal library to cover what he wants, he does not hesitate to invoke the law of another land to apply to the specific case he has under consideration. And thus the judge makes the law fit the culprit.

On Saturday the six youthful burglars who were arrested by the police department a few days ago for burglarizing the store of the Ferreteria del Rio Bravo, were summoned before Judge Mullally. Two of these boys are residents of Laredo four of them are from Nuevo Laredo, and of the latter three were refugees and the other was a "fortuitous visitor" on the night the burglary was committed. The leader of the gang was named Napoleon—oh, shades of the great French warrior, how you have been honored.

The parents of the six boys were present when Judge Mullally convened his "delinquent" court, on Saturday. To the parents the judge gave some very timely advice, while the boys at the same time were warned of what future infractions of the law might mean to them—a term in the reformatory. Judge Mullally dismissed five of the youthful incorrigibles after telling them "some things" and evoking from them promises to be "good boys" in future.

Then the "fortuitous visitor" was called before the judge. This kid said that he resided in Nuevo Laredo, that that place was his home and that he had only "happened" to come to Laredo on the evening of the burglary. Judge Mullally patiently listened to his tale of woe. Then

THREE GENERALS IN N. LAREDO

Generals Pablo Gonzales and Toribio Ortega Arrived There Saturday on a Special Train.

There are three generals of the constitutionalist army now in Nuevo Laredo, they being General Pablo Gonzales, major general commanding the northern military zone of Mexico; General Toribio Ortega, commander of the military forces of Monterey, and General Jesus Carranza, commander of the military forces of Nuevo Laredo.

Generals Gonzales and Ortega, accompanied by their staffs, arrived in Nuevo Laredo about 7 o'clock Saturday evening on a special train from Monterey, where General Gonzales is making his headquarters, he having been in command of the constitutionalists when they captured that place from the federals a few weeks ago.

Assembled at the depot to greet the incoming train with its high officials were a large number of people. Long before the train pulled into the station, however, a great din furnished a demonstration of welcome and whistles blew, bells rang and anvils resounded, and this noise continued long after the arrival of the train and after the generals had reached the headquarters over there. Saturday night a band concert was given in honor of the visiting officers, and on Sunday more receptions, etc., were given in Nuevo Laredo.

General Gonzales is said to have come to Nuevo Laredo at this time on a tour of inspection and for a conference with General Carranza, but the nature of the conference could not be ascertained, except that it pertains to military matters concerning the city across the way.

Laredos Lost the Series.

The Laredo aggregation dropped the first two games of the series of base ball to the Stowers team on Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning and thereby lost the series, although they were victors in the third game played on Sunday afternoon. In the first game the locals had Thompson on the firing line and the soldier boy did some splendid work, but the support given him was ragged and the game was lost on errors. Score 4 to 1 in favor of Stowers. In the second game, which was played on Sunday morning, Capra did the twirling for the locals and the contest was a good one, but the visitors again won by bunching their hits at opportune moments. Score 3 to 1 in favor of Stowers. The third game was played on yesterday afternoon and was a lively contest from beginning to finish, but Brown being on the firing line and at all times holding the visitors close. This game resulted 4 to 3 in favor of Laredo, and being the only one of the series which they won. There was a fairly attendance at all three games, despite the threatening weather of Sunday.

Soldiers' Service.

With an address by Chaplain Wallace R. Watts of the Ninth Infantry and a number of hymns, familiar to most of them, the soldiers at Fort McIntosh and the infantry camp were given a special service at Christ church last evening. The church was filled to overflowing and much interest was manifested by the soldiers.

"GAONA" MET HORRIBLE DEATH

Had Come in on Pilot of Engine Pulling Special Train and Alighted From Engine Too Soon.

Arcadio Urango, a young Mexican man of this city who was familiarly known as "Gaona," and whose ways were of a somewhat peculiar nature because of his actions, met with a tragic death in Nuevo Laredo on Saturday night just as the special train bearing Generals Pablo Gonzales and Toribio Ortega pulled into the station over there.

"Gaona" was an enthusiastic Carrancista and at the time that the train passed through Lampazos, he was there on a visit. The train made a short stop at the station in Lampazos and "Gaona" crawled aboard the pilot of the engine when the train pulled out and rode in that way to Nuevo Laredo. Observing the large crowd assembled at the station cheering the arrival of the two generals, and believing that the engine had stopped when it slowed up some, "Gaona" jumped off, was struck and knocked down and literally ground to pieces before the eyes of nearly a thousand people. The locomotive passed over his body before it could be stopped. It was certainly a gruesome sight that met the gaze of those who later removed the mangled body from where it lay a crushed mass between the rails.

Proposals For Bids.

The street and bridge committee of the city council will receive bids up to 6 o'clock p. m. Monday, June 1, for reconstructing the concrete side wall on Convent Avenue leading to the tramway bridge. Plans and specifications are on file in the city secretary's office. City council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

ESCAPED DEATH BY MIRACLE

Little Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan H. Hickey Falls Twenty Feet to Wooden Platform Below.

On Saturday afternoon about four o'clock Elizabeth, the sweet little 14 month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan H. Hickey, had one of the most miraculous escapes from a tragic end ever recorded here, with the result that the subsequent injuries were small compared to the circumstances of the accident.

Mrs. Hickey, while on her way to the dentist's office, left the baby with the father at the Texas-Mexican depot building, and the tot was playing in Mr. Hickey's office, sitting on the floor with a pin cushion in her hand. Mr. Hickey had turned to do something when the baby surreptitiously stole away, went down a long hall, walked off the balcony of the station on the north side (which has no railing about it) and was precipitated a distance of twenty feet headlong to the wooden platform below.

As soon as Mr. Hickey missed the baby he rushed down the hall and later, when he went to the door leading to the balcony and looked below, he saw his baby lying on the platform below motionless. Then a most dreadful thought dawned on him, for he believed the child had been killed. When picked up it was unconscious. Medical aid was summoned and the baby taken home, and soon after it regained consciousness. It was discovered that the only injury sustained was a fracture of the left collar bone.

Thank the little one was not killed outright by the high fall was a miracle, but Mr. and Mrs. Hickey's many friends are gratified to learn that the baby will soon recover from the effects of the accident.

Boy Bitten By a Dog.

On Saturday afternoon a small boy, son of Carlos Villareal, met with a painful accident when he almost had his left arm torn off by a vicious dog said to belong to J. W. Musser. According to his own story, the boy was in a manner responsible for the dog becoming enraged, as he says he waved a sack at him as he passed the fence and the dog lunged at the boy, grabbed him by the arm and the flesh was badly lacerated, separating some of the tendons and other wise tearing it. The boy was given medical attention immediately and is now reported as doing as nicely as could be expected under the circumstances.

STORSTAD'S ANCHOR WAS BLOOD STAINED

EXAMINATION SHOWED THAT ANCHOR RIPPED THROUGH EMPRESS LIKE GIANT CAN OPENER.

By Associated Press.

Montreal, June 1.—Examination today showed the anchor jammed in the bow of the collier Storstad, where it could rip through the Empress of Ireland like a giant can-opener. The anchor was blood-stained.

The official count today puts the loss of life at 969.

One of the Storstad's officers said that when he reached the deck the Storstad was going full speed astern. The rescued were put in the engine room, "some of them so numbed that they leaned against the engine until their flesh blistered," declared the officer.

GENERAL PRIMARIES IN IOWA.

Des Moines, June 1.—Voters of Iowa went to the polls today and expressed their preferences for candidates for the United States senate, the governorship and numerous State and county offices to be filled at the November election. The complete results of the primary probably will not be known before noon tomorrow. Republicans are chiefly interested in the outcome of the senatorial and gubernatorial vote. Senator Cummings and Governor Clarke are candidates for re-nomination and their victory by substantial margins will be accepted by Republicans generally as an indication that the party will come back strong in the elections next fall. Senator Cummings is opposed by Arthur C. Savage of Adair and Governor Clarke is opposed by Judge C. G. Lee of Ames and John W. Rowley of Keosauqua. The Democrats have contests on for all State offices except that of attorney general, but the campaign has been of an unusually friendly character. The rival candidates for the democratic nomination for United States senator are Congressman Maurice Connolly of Dubuque and Edwin T. Meredith of Des Moines.

AQUITANIA SAILS AMIDST CHEERS.

Liverpool, May 29.—Amidst a great tooting of whistles afloat and ashore, that resounding down the Mersey must have been an enthusiastic "bon voyage" the Aquitania, the magnificent new Cunard liner and one of the largest vessels in the world, sailed out of this port today on her maiden voyage to America. The event was a notable one, and thousands of spectators assembled on the water front to witness the departure. It is expected the Aquitania will land her passengers in New York early on Friday.

The Aquitania is of 47,000 gross tonnage. She has a length of 291 feet, or about 90 feet less than that of the new Hamburg-American liner Vaterland, which is the world's largest vessel. The Aquitania is claimed to be the most magnificent of all transatlantic liners. Her cost exceeded $10,000,000. She is provided with every imaginable luxury and her interior fittings and furnishings are equal to those of the finest hotels in Europe or America. She carries a crew of more than 1,000 men and has accommodations for 650 first class passengers, 740 second class, and 2400 steerage passengers.

High School Advances.

This reflects credit upon both the teachers and pupils of Laredo High School and makes it a higher ranking institution than ever before.

CARRANZA OBJECTS TO ARMISTICE AND DISCUSSION OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS BUT MEDIATORS FIRM.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 1.—The question of admitting the constitutionalists to the mediation proceedings is still undecided. After a two-hours' conference with the mediators Justice Lamar announced that they "were not so far apart on certain points" as on Saturday.

The mediators were favorably impressed by the desire of the United States to admit the constitutionalists, but insist on an armistice and the discussion of internal Mexican affairs, to which Carranza objects.

Poetry's Price.

The West Texas Magazine, a publication recently launched at Del Rio, announces that it will pay but $5 a line for poetry. If that is all they pay for poetry, we will continue to use our own poems. If said magazine would publish a few good poems each month it might be worth exchanging with—Ford County News (Crowell).

Five dollars a line for poetry is not enough. Poetry is worth much more than a dollar a word, and there is an average of five words to the line. We are talking about poetry, mind you, not doggerel. Poetry is like radium—extremely rare and valuable, although not good for anything. Doggerel, on the other hand, is always in excess of demand and has no market price. Doggerels are usually glad to give their product gratis to whomsoever will print it. In all the world there are only a few poets, not many more than there are fingers on one hand, and it is a fine satisfaction to The News to know that two of the few have their lairs under its roof—Galveston News.

WILSON BELIEVES PROSPERITY ON WAY

SAID CLAYTON ANTI-TRUST BILL WAS NOT CAUSE OF THE PRESENT BUSINESS DEPRESSION.

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 1.—President Wilson today reiterated his belief that any present unsatisfactory business conditions were not general but were less felt in the United States than in any other countries. The president held the first conference with the correspondents since the Mexican trouble became acute, but barred that subject. Mr. Wilson said that prosperity would "come with a jump" if the manufacturers believed it was coming. He said that the Clayton trust bill did not give labor any rights not now enjoyed, but defined those rights clearly. The president did not believe that was the cause of the depression.

THE SUFFRAGETTES.

Sir Conan Doyle, the famous English novelist, has come to the front with two rather startling statements. One was that before long some of the militants will be lynched, and the other was that the London police have proven themselves unable to cope with the conditions created by the militants.

The Brooklyn Eagle says that the people of New York will almost sigh with relief at the latter statement. "When comparisons have been made," says the Eagle, "always they have been odious to one metropolis and agreeable to the other. Always the 'Bobby' has been held up as a model of what 'the finest' should be and—is not."

And this is the thing that will strike the average American as being strange. Writer after writer has told us of the respect inspired by the London policeman, who holds up traffic with a wave of his hand and impartially stops a peer or a publican who is violating the traffic laws.

But it is safe to say that there is hardly an American policeman in any city of the country who would not have handled the suffragette troubles in a more effective, if not a better, fashion than have the English preservers of law and order.

It is true that English law with regard to arrests is not like our laws. Our officers are too prone to use the effective means of a club and the nippers, rather than the moral suasion which has proven so effective in the case of male infractors of the laws of England.

But they get results. Sometimes the results are not so pleasing to the person arrested as other methods would bring, but the arrests are made, and the persons are brought before the bar of justice.

And fancy an American police magistrate being "howled down" in his own court by a lot of frenzied women bent on obstructing the course of justice! As the boys say, what would happen to them would be a plenty!

The trouble with the English methods is that they were framed with regard to a proper respect for the law. And an English suffragette has no more respect for the law than has a hungry yellow dog in front of a butcher's stall. The only thing which she will respect is force, and force of a brutal kind, at that. And her respect is based solely upon fear.

The continuous battle between the militants and the guardians of law and order had its inception when the women realized that instead of being actuated by a desire to break their heads the London police were bent upon only the legal and proper manner of making an arrest. Whereupon the militants said: "The big boob is afraid of us"—or the English equivalent thereof.

Women who have been brought up in an atmosphere of domestic tyranny, where the woman always has to give in to the brother, husband or father, are bound to go to the other extreme when they have no longer a fear of being given corporal punishment.

Perhaps an interchange of the police of New York and of London, like those of our Rhodes scholarship students, might work wonders with both forces. The one has much to learn in true gentleness while the other would not be the worse off for a little brutality, applied where necessary.

At any rate, the existing methods of handling the suffragette problems leave much to be desired. Their only result has been to make the London "Bobby" despised where once he was looked up to and admired. It would be a spiritless housemaid nowadays who would look forward to a bank holiday spent at "Apsy" Amsted with a policeman in uniform—she would be despised by her militant sisters.

BREEDING VIOLENCE.

In a recent article in Collier's, Peter MacFarlane tells of the terrible acts committed by the strikers in the Colorado coal mine district, in which he says:

"They (the strikers) were in the main semi-ignorant, and utterly unreasoning when their passions were aroused. They hated like animals. They fought like tigers. They shamefully maltreated the bodies of the dead that came into their hands. Once their passions were stirred, they could not be controlled by their Anglo-Saxon leaders.

"But," says Mr. MacFarlane, "this state of mind was not natural. It was induced, we might say. It was a case where one wrong bred another, where that sort of violence which consists in robbing a man by trickery of the fruits of his labor or imposing upon him by means of superior power is meted in the end by that cruder and more horrible seeming violence, when the worker, tricked too long, turns his tools into weapons and begins to answer with the ultimate argument."

The same thing occurred when the ignorant, savage peasantry of France turned on their lords and masters and converted France into a shambles that was not cleansed until after the rise and fall of Napoleon.

The French peasant had been for ages despoiled of what was rightfully his, and the only answer to his appeals for justice was the most cruel punishments that could be devised by the hirelings of the nobles, past masters in refined cruelty and educated barbarism.

The poem of Mexico has been exploited for many years. The fruits of his labor—such as they might be—were withheld from him until such time as the employer or the master saw fit to turn them over. Never secure in his tenure, any more than the peasant of Europe was secure in his stretched hut, his only hope lay in securing the protection of someone whose power was sufficient to shelter him from the despoiling hand of others.

The result we have seen in the past four years. Wherever the rich man was exposed to the fury of the rebel hands which roamed the country, the property of the great owner was ruthlessly destroyed, the women and children were subjected to the foulest outrages and the head of the family usually paid his life for the oppression which the poor had suffered.

And it was of no avail to point out that this particular man had never oppressed the poor. Like the blood-thirsty savages of the French revolution, the Mexican visited his hatred of the class upon the individual.

And once aroused to the savagery of class hatred, it will be a long time before the Mexican, or the Colorado striker, will be brought to subjection to the law. The dreadful orgies of murder and pillage were carried on in France until the hand of the executioner was numbed with fatigue and the people themselves were disgusted with the crimes they had committed.

It is not surprising that the Mexicans have wholly committed themselves to the reign of savage murder, robbery and destruction. In every human being there is a latent savagery which comes to the surface in times like the present, and the ignorant Mexican is more closely a child of nature than his educated contemporaries of Europe or the United States.

But when Mexico shall awake to the dreadful consequences of the past years of anarchy, it is undoubted that the regeneration will begin, although it may take years to accomplish.

The house has amended the Clayton bill so that labor or farmers' organizations shall not be held as combinations in restraint of trade. The form or bill which held the same thing in favor of exempting farmers or laboring men, and President Wilson is of the same opinion as Taft. But we'd like to bet that the farmers and labor men win out.

The declaration of Carranza that he is the president of Mexico is funnier than a boil on the neck. Let's see, didn't he have something to say about the constitution once?

Suffragettes have burned another historic church in Great Britain. Which is as unlikely a way of securing the vote as one could well imagine.

The federalists who evacuated Saltillo have reached San Luis Potosi. Let us hope that the rebels will give them time to take a long breath after their exhausting run.

Brother Elia of the Denison Herald said that "King David said that all men are liars and we don't know that the statement has ever been retracted." King David said: "I said in my haste all men are liars," which would indicate that the royal harper meant that he had been mistaken.

CEREMONY AT GUADALUPE CHAPEL.

The solemn ceremony of crowning the Blessed Mother, took place Sunday evening at Guadalupe Church and regardless of the inclemency of the weather a large number of people from all parts of the city were present.

The procession formed in the school yard and filed out of the west gate and after encircling the entire block entered the church. The order observed was as follows: First came the cross bearer and his attendants, then Miss Encha Alegro, wearing a flowing green gown, a crown of fern and carrying a cross of ferns, thus representing the Virgin Faith, her attendants were about seventy-five boys wearing green scarfs; next came Miss Hortense Peña, entirely in blue and wearing a wreath of natural blue flowers and carrying an anchor of blue corn flowers, thus representing Hope, her attendants were some hundred or more little girls in white dresses and wreaths of natural flowers, they wore blue scarfs; following the band of Hope came Miss Elisa Garza, crowned entirely in red and bearing a heart of red roses, her attendants some hundred or more large girls were also crowned in white and wearing red scarfs. Next came the boards of the Ursuline Academy, in white gowns and long flowing veils and wreaths, and wearing pale blue sashes in pleasing contrast to the dark blue worn by the children who attended Hope. These young ladies carried baskets of flowers scattering them before the statue of the Blessed Virgin which was carried on a bier by four young ladies of the Society of Our Lady of Guadalupe, following the bier came a tiny tot of four in veil and wreath, a long white dress and pale blue sash with slippers and stockings to match; she carried on a satin pillow the crown for the beautiful May Queen.

Upon entering the church the children banked their flowers around the May Altar, the three virtues forming a semicircle in the sanctuary while Miss Marie Santibañez in clear distinct tones read the act of consecration and coronation, and the little crown bearer walked up the steps and placed the crown on our Lady's head while the children's sweet voices again burst forth in the coronation hymn.

Rev. Fr. McLoey of Monterrey now ascended the Altar steps and preached a most feeling and impressive sermon which was listened to with rapt attention by the large congregation. The sermon was followed by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament given by Rev. Fr. Ramon of St. Augustine's Church.

The ceremony was one of the most beautiful that has ever been held at Guadalupe church, and the parents and friends of the children expressed the desire that they would often be repeated in their dear little church, in the future.

HARRY POGGENPOHL WAS KILLED

Meagre Details Received This Morning States Former Laredo Boy Was Killed on a Railroad.

"A man killed here tonight on the railroad had a letter in his pocket addressed to Harry and signed by you at 1502 Farragut street, Laredo, Texas. Presume he is your son. Wire instructions as to disposition of remains."

This was the sad intelligence contained in a night letter telegraph dated at St. Joseph, Mo., last night and signed by the corner, which was this morning handed Mrs. Lena Poggenpohl as she sat at the breakfast table. What anguish and heart throbs those dreadful words caused and the grief that that message brought was inconceivable. Only a meagre message came, giving no details of the terrible fate that had nipped out the life of a young man in the prime of life, full of ambition and making his way in this broad universe. Life in its genesis is an uncertainty and none can reckon when the last sad summons shall come—most generally when the least expected. How Harry Poggenpohl met his death has not been learned, but perhaps in a railway disaster, for such the message would infer. But, nevertheless, the details will not tend to assuage the grief that lingers with a mother, sister and two brothers who survive him. To them go the sympathy of the community in their dark hours when they are bereft of a beloved one.

Harry Poggenpohl was a native of Laredo, where he was born about 25 years ago, and up to about ten years ago made his home in this city, where he had many warm friends who will learn of his death with sincere regret. When Harry left Laredo it was for the purpose of taking up the study of electrical engineering, which he proposed to make his vocation.

The remains will be brought to Laredo for interment, the matter having been placed in the hands of W. M. Smith, local agent of the Wells-Fargo express, this morning, with instructions to have the body embalmed and shipped home. Besides his aged mother, deceased is survived by one sister, Miss Lillian Poggenpohl, and two brothers, Charles and Alfred Poggenpohl, and to them go the condolence of the community in their bereavement.

Mrs. Poggenpohl and daughter, Miss Lillian, and Miss Julia Schultz, sister of Mrs. Poggenpohl, had all arrangements completed for leaving tomorrow on their summer vacation, but instead, in a home shadowed by gloom, they will remain and there in sorrow bemoan the loss which has bereft them of a dear one.

CROSSED LARGE HERD OF CATTLE

H. E. Johnson of Moore Brings Over Herd of 991 Cattle Purchased from Milmo Mesa Ranch.

Yesterday evening just before dusk an interesting spectacle was witnessed at the International foot bridge occasioned by the crossing of one of the largest single herds of cattle brought across that structure in some time past through Nuevo Laredo.

This large herd of cattle, accompanied by a number of vaqueros, comprised a total of 991 head, being the first bunch of a herd of 2500 head purchased by H. E. Johnson of Moore from the Milmo Mesa ranch near Hidalgo. The cattle were loaded last night and shipped today by Mr. Johnson to one of his ranches along the I. & G. N. railway.

Stockmen and others who saw this big herd as it came across the bridge here last evening pronounced them one of the best looking lots of cattle crossed to this side from Mexico in some time past, all the cattle being in excellent condition and coming off ranges where nutritious grasses were plentiful.

San Jose Band Serenaded Generals.
The Mexican brass band from the San Jose coal mines arrived here yesterday afternoon from San Jose and after giving a few selections in this city proceeded to Nuevo Laredo, where they tendered a serenade to Generals Pablo Gonzales, Toribio Ortega and Jesus Carranza at their headquarters across the way. Last night the band gave a concert on the upper plaza in Nuevo Laredo which was attended by three high officers and a number of people from the city and Laredo. The band, which is composed of miners from San Jose and which renders some good music, returned to their homes this morning.

Rainy Season Hoids On.
With the passing of the month of May it was believed by many that the wet season would terminate, but it now appears that June is going to emulate May and be another rainy period. This morning there was a good shower of rain, while last night a light rain also fell. All Texas has been thoroughly soaked the past month. Yoakum, in DeWitt county, reported that from May 3 to May 18 a total of 21.1 inches of rain had fallen. If that is true Laredo had only a little moisture compared to Yoakum.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, and cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

FOREST NOTES.

Cornell University recently dedicated a forestry building in connection with the state college of agriculture.

It is said that the best times of day to see forest fires from lookout stations are just after daylight and just before sunset.

The forest service has been requested to cooperate with the port author-ties of Coos Bay, Washington, in planting to control shifting sand dunes.

Jack pine trees planted ten years ago in the sand hills of Nebraska are now large enough to produce fence posts. Last year the first seed was gathered from this plantation.

CARRANZA NOW MUST MAKE THE NEXT MOVE

MEDIATORS FOUND WAY TO OVERCOME REBELS' OBJEC-TIONS TO ARMISTICE AND ARE OPTIMISTIC.

By Associated Press.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 3.—Carranza must make the next move in the mediation game. The Mexican delegates' announcement last night that Huerta would resign when the provisional government was ready to assume control paved the way for the constitutionalists' entry into the proceedings. It is understood that the mediators found a middle ground to overcome the constitutionalists' objections to the armistice and are optimistic of settling the trouble. Until Carranza replies, diplomacy waits.
The Huerta delegates answered the constitutionalist argument against discussing internal affairs by saying that the international and internal phases were inseparably interwoven.

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 3.—The New Haven inquiry was resumed today. J.
S. Elton, a director, said that he did not personally approve of the "extravagances" in the purchase of the subsidiary lines. He said that the board depended largely upon the judgment of the executive committee, composed of J. P. Morgan, William Rockefeller and Director Brush. Mr.
Elton said that the board usually acquiesced in Morgan's suggestions.

"Why were you afraid to object?"
he was asked.

"Natural timidity, I suppose," he replied.

Mr. Elton said that the directors passed from one meeting to another of the New Haven subsidiaries so fast that "he couldn't keep up."

FEAR AN ATTACK ON JOHN ROCKEFELLER

THE SHERIFF OF WESTCHESTER COUNTY AUTHORIZED TO DEPUTIZE FIFTY MORE MEN TODAY.

By Associated Press.

New York, June 3.—So many Industrial Workers of the World have gone to Westchester county, where John D.
Rockefeller lives, that the sheriff has been authorized to deputize fifty additional men. It is believed that fear of a concentrated attack on the oil magnate, who has been condemned for his policy in the Colorado strike, caused the action.

All open-air meetings there have been prohibited. Sixteen arrested for a recent demonstration have abandoned their threatened hunger strike and are eating anything they can get.
The Westchester authorities have been paying the square with a soft tar preparation, eliminating the jubilee day at the University of Mis-memorative of the founding of the institution and the work it has accomplished during the seventy-five years of its existence.

Following an academic procession the anniversary exercises began at 10 o'clock this morning in the university auditorium. The gathering taxed the capacity of the big hall. Addresses were made by David F. Houston, Secretary of Agriculture of the United States; Dr. Harry B. Hutchins, president of the University of Michigan; David R. Francis, former governor of Missouri and president of the board of curators of the State university;

schools. Dr. A. Ross Hill, president of the university, presided at the

THEIR RIGHTS.

By Associated Press.

London, Eng., June 3.—Two suffragettes today horsewhipped Dr.
Francis Forward, medical officer of Holloway jail. The women declared that their action was a "protest against the forcible feeding, for which this beast is responsible." Dr. Forward was whipped once before. Two furies today were attributed to the suffragettes.

A stylishly dressed young suffragette savagely attacked with a hatchet an attendant of the Dore gallery who tried to prevent her destroying priceless pictures. She destroyed two before he saw her. She left a letter saying that the suffragettes heretofore have been "too lady-like,"

A HOME RUN.

General Maas, who commanded Huerta's forces at Vera Cruz, appears to be a typical Mexican soldier of high rank. As soon as the American marines landed he entered his carriage and was driven with dignity to safety. The members of his command were left to shift for themselves, to fight or run as they pleased.—Topeka

Perhaps General Maas strongly believes that "he who fights and runs away may live to fight another day."

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

From Thursday's Daily.

WHY IS AN EMBARGO?

When the embargo on arms was re-established, it was prophesied by many that the official proclamation was but a blind, and that the apparent sympathy of the Washington administration for the rebels would find some way to prevent the embargo from being effective.

The enforcing of the embargo by the border patrol occasioned by some surprise, as many stated their belief that the embargo was only intended to prevent the federals from stocking up with ammunition and replenishing their arms supply.

The occupation of Vera Cruz was primarily ordered, it was stated in the despatches from Washington, to prevent a large shipment of arms and ammunition from reaching Huerta, and the German steamer which carried the cargo placed herself at the disposal of the American authorities.

After the implied armistice began, the German vessel returned to Havana, from which place she set sail for Puerto Mexico and there landed the cargo which was so important to Huerta's war plans. The statement explaining why the American vessels did not prevent the landing of the arms was that to do so would have been a violation of the armistice.

The other day a vessel left New York bound for Tampico with a supply of arms and ammunition for the rebels. It was stated that the vessel would not be permitted to clear, but investigation proved that the clearance papers had been issued before orders came to stop the vessel's departure, and she sailed for the rebel port.

There is a general feeling that the officially announced embargo is not only ineffective, but from the first was meant to be so. During the past year the embargo which was declared by President Taft a few months before his term ended was repeatedly broken by the rebel sympathizers, and it was a notorious fact that much more ammunition was being taken across the border despite the embargo than was captured.

The federals were the only ones who suffered from the embargo, until they finally began importing ammunition and arms from other countries. There was hardly a week that passed without the notice of a large quantity of arms or ammunition being received in rebel camps from American sources.

It is not yet certain that the mediation program will be successful in restoring peace to Mexico, or that the United States will not have to take up arms against one or the other faction—if indeed, not against the Mexican nation.

The permission for either side to import all the arms they are able to pay for, while the United States forces are marking time at Vera Cruz would appear to be the height of folly. In case that hostilities should be forced upon this country, we should take steps to prevent the importation into Mexico of arms and ammunition for either side.

But there is another side to the question. The failure to enforce the embargo will cause other nations to look upon our attitude with scorn and contempt. We shall be convicted of hypocrisy in claiming to be opposed to permitting the Mexicans to import arms, while our port officials and our naval fleet at Vera Cruz are not permitted to enforce the order which came direct from Washington.

If the rebels (or any other faction of Mexicans) are to be permitted to secure all the arms they want from American manufacturers, then let us be honest enough to say so. Remove the embargo if it is not to be enforced. It is too much like a prohibition law in Maine with a saloon on every street corner.

If the embargo was made to be respected, give the officials power to enforce it, against every party or individual across the border.

MINISTERS AND TOBACCO.

In a recent number of the Atlanta Constitution, the editor preaches "a little sermon to the church." He alludes to the recent action of the Southern Presbyterian and the Southern Methodist in forbidding the use of tobacco to their respective clergy, whether active or in preparation for the pulpit.

He says: "The scriptural test of those things that should go under the ecclesiastical ban are those that are pitfalls of destruction for other people, and indulgence in which by the clergy sets an evil and pernicious habit." And he adds: "That tobacco is harmful to so tragic an extent as here represented, few people believe."

Further on, he says: "The deadliness of tobacco being not a question of morals, but of health and expediency, is not its use a question that may safely be left to the judgment of the individual? And if you thwart the personal will in these matters, substitute an ecclesiastical mandate for 'I am the captain of my soul'—what do you accomplish? You hazard making the individual driven into a course of self-denial against his judgment and reason, resentful of other church discipline, suspicious and skeptical of the soundness of more fundamental religious regulations."

And this is the danger of the church adopting a system of regulating the conduct of its members by rules. Many of our older citizens can remember when it was a part of the "discipline" of a certain church that no woman member should wear artificial flowers, and the question of personal adornment was believed to be of supreme importance as affecting the soul's salvation.

The Constitution says: "Representative Bartholdt of Missouri said a few days ago that one of the dangers of state or church trespass into the field of personal rights was that once begun no one could forecast its lengths. That is true. Let the church forbid tobacco to its ministers, and it may ultimately extend the proscription to every line of petty personal conduct of its laymen."

There is no doubt that some of the greatest and most valuable of the ministers of the church have used tobacco, and there is a question whether its use has prevented the full measure of their usefulness to the church and to society.

In these days the church seems to be drifting away from its original use—that of leading sinners to repentance. Every phase of human activity is now invaded by the various denominations, and more attention is paid to the non-essentials than to the primary objects of a Christian church.

Politics, the petty regulation of a man's habits, the dictation as to what amusements are proper or improper, eugenics, modern fashions—all these today occupy the time of the church dignitaries who were wont to occupy themselves in planning great campaigns for the betterment of mankind, but who are now converting themselves into a social police for the regulation of a man's (or woman's) daily life in other matters than those concerning their religion.

There is no doubt a notion today on the part of some that they have the right to regulate the lives of others. That this idea is taking root in the seats of the mighty in church organizations is to be regretted. But the people as a whole are still too sane to permit this domination of ecclesiastical authority. And eventually the mistake of the church dignitaries will be corrected.

The Huerta delegates said that in international and internal Mexican affairs were inseparably interwoven. They don't look so much interwoven as they do like something that has been handled with an eggbeater.

Mexican federals who have discovered that Huerta's statement that both factions had united to fight the American invaders was untrue are declared to have joined the rebels. The invaders are steadily preparing for that sort of a coalition should it take place.

Meanwhile, if the rebel leaders do agree to an armistice, what will their followers live on? Or doesn't an armistice prevent grabbing all that looks like food?

The I-Won't-Workers who were threatening a hunger strike in a New York jail have surrendered and are eating everything they can get. Now would be a good time to get rid of some of the adulterated food products which the Pure Food inspectors have condemned.

A London suffragette says that her sisters in crime have been too "lady-like" in their work, and that hereafter they will have to "fight" for their rights. We now have an English definition of "lady-like."

A government watchman wanted promotion, so he conceived the bright idea of concealing some dynamite and getting credit for discovering it at the proper time. If that man ever goes into finance, the Rockefeller and other geniuses better watch out.

MISS MAUDE BIGDEN FIRE QUEEN

By Large Majority Young Lady Was Last Night Elected Queen of Laredo Fire Department.

Miss Maude Bigden 13,369
Miss Marguerite Nelson 8,150
Miss Julia Leyendecker 6,845

The above is the result of the whirlwind finish of the fire queen contest of the Laredo Volunteer Fire Department which came to a close last night at 10 o'clock, the contest having been conducted under the supervision of Messrs. G. R. Weber and Sam W. Brown as judges and counters. After six o'clock last evening the various voting places were closed and all voting after that hour was done at the office of the local manager of the telephone company, and a number of interested parties gathered in front of the office to watch the close and read the bulletins issued. The bulletins issued at 8:30 and 9:30 showed Miss Leyendecker in the lead one time and Miss Nelson the next time; Miss Bigden retained third place until the final vote was cast, which was as the clock began to strike 10. The anxious crowd outside awaited the announcement of the result with considerable interest and when it came an air of satisfaction seemed to prevail among both the victorious and losing supporters of the three leading candidates. None of the other candidates in the race made any advances during the afternoon and night of the last day, so their names do not appear in the list.

Miss Maude Bigden, the fire queen elect, is one of Laredo's sweetest young ladies, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bigden, and her numerous friends are congratulating her on the honor bestowed on her by the fire boys as the result of one of the most interesting popularity contests pulled off in Laredo in some years past. The coronation ceremonies will take place at the grand ball to be given by the fire department on next Wednesday night, after which the grand march and start the "ball going." Each of the hose companies and three racing teams will elect sponsors, and these will be members of the queen's court.

MODERN ABSTRACTING

Having completed a new and modern Abstract plant of Webb County, we are ready to take orders for abstracts and solicit your business in that line.

Our abstracts will conform to the usual form of complete copies of the records, except such deeds of trust or other records as have been properly released, which will be given in short form. District Court and Probate Court records will be charged for by the page of single space typewriting at the rate charged per transfer. All tax suits that have been dismissed or otherwise disposed of before judgment, will be eliminated from the abstract, thus lessening the cost to you.

OUR CHARGES ARE FIFTY CENTS PER TRANSFER—just half what you have been paying, to say nothing of the probable saving by eliminating useless matter heretofore included in abstracts.

Paying for abstracts is merely another form of paying taxes. Just as you have to pay taxes before selling land, so you now, more and more, have to give abstracts with each deed. Therefore if we can save you 50% in this item of your tax bill, patronize us.

We will make special prices on large orders or memorandum abstracts.

First—No one but the makers of Tuxedo is willing to spend the money necessary to buy the mildest, choicest, most thoroughly aged, selected Burley tobacco.

Second—No one but the makers of Tuxedo knows how to treat this Burley tobacco so that every bit of pleasantness and goodness remains in the tobacco and every bit of unpleasantness and harshness is taken out.

Beware Diseased Potatoes.

On account of the recent discovery of violations of the Maine quarantine regulations, all purchasers of Maine seed potatoes are warned to have their stock examined by the state expert, if possible, before planting, the New York Sun states. Unscrupulous shippers, it is stated, have been sending diseased potatoes into New York, Boston and other points, where certificates of inspection have been fraudulently attached to the bags. While in general the Maine authorities have endeavored to see that none but sound potatoes left the state, certain inspectors have been negligent and have certified diseased stock. The United States department of agriculture has, therefore, advised buyers to disregard all certificates issued hitherto. It will be a costly mistake for any farmer or gardener to plant diseased potatoes.

DELAYING THE GAME.

There is one thing certain in the mediation game that is now being played, and that is that Carranza with a bobtail flush bids fair to outplay those who have the good cards. The desire of the good cards. The very first was that he should not be permitted to enter the conferences save on the same terms as the Huerta delegates gracefully submitted to. The apparent determination of the United States to drag him in by the scruff of the neck had, naturally, some weight with the mediators, and every inducement was offered the rebel chieftain to accept the terms announced and enter the proceedings.

But it was also apparent from the first that he had no intention of partaking in the conferences except on his own terms, and those were that the United States was unwarranted in poking its nose into Mexican affairs and should withdraw from the conference except insofar as the question of the salute was concerned.

He even wants to debate the right of the United States to occupy Vera Cruz, which he claims to dominate as being a part of Mexico, of which he is the supreme chief, and a provisional president, etc., etc., ad nauseam.

The certainty that he is only trying to delay proceedings until his benchman Villa can have time to mop up a fair proportion of Mexico is by this time apparent even to our government, which is always a few weeks behind the rest of the world in learning of matters which concern this country.

But with the stubborn determination to have Carranza enter the conference whether he wants to or not, and despite the indifference of the mediators and the Huerta delegates as to whether he does or not, our administration is holding back the results of the mediation which has already occupied several days of genuine diplomacy.

There is at present no prospect that Carranza will enter the mediation on any terms. He is incapable of understanding that it would be to his own best interests to accept with a good grace the efforts of the mediators and administration to draw him into the conference, and he is more intent upon posing before the world as a great conqueror than he is upon securing the best terms he can for his misguided followers.

That he could by any possibility avert the inevitable consequences of the present diplomatic exchanges is of course absurd. He may become what he aims to be—the dictator of Mexico. He may succeed in securing the backing of this country for his government, such as it is and would become with the triumph of the present rebellion.

But he could not last for any length of time, either as commander-in-chief of the heterogeneous collection of bandits, patriots, politicians and booters which he proudly styles the constitutional "army," or as chief executive of a government constituted of such elements as he has been or will be able to gather around him.

The mediators have the best interests of all Mexico at heart. It is certain that the United States is also actuated by a desire for the welfare of all Mexico. And a further refusal of Carranza to enter into the negotiations fully and freely, on the pretext that his honor will suffer thereby, proves that he is not so much actuated by a patriotic love for his country as he is by a personal desire for aggrandizement at the expense of all others.

THE SOMERS SYSTEM.

The Austin Tribune has a very illuminating article on "What the Somers System Is," which is of interest to all in this city when the board of equalization is about to meet to adjust the complaints of the taxpayers.

The Tribune says: "The Somers system is not an arbitrary formula by which values are fixed by outsiders while property owners sit around with their hands folded and their eyes and mouths open in awe and wonder. The Somers system is, on the contrary, a more or less simple, perfectly rational method of equalizing values on a mathematical basis, which any set of intelligent men could apply, and which without the aid of local people could be utterly useless in the hands of the expert stranger."

According to the Tribune, the only advantage which the Somers people possess is that of the use of copyrighted tables which one Mr. Somers spent twenty-five years in composing and perfecting and which have been sold by him to a corporation now operating throughout the country, applying their systems by use of these copyrighted tables to such cities as are willing to pay for the service.

Says the Tribune: "In the application of this system, these Somers tables are as invaluable as the interest tables found in every bank, as the 'answer books' which save the necessity of proving the correctness of mathematical solutions of set problems. The Somers people have the answer and it is cheaper to buy the answer than to find it for ourselves."

The operation of the system is as follows: The assessor, the only one authorized by law to assess, calls to either the property owners or to be assessed, or a committee of them, and proceeds to find a unit of value—that is, the value of a certain tract in each block, and from this unit the assessor, using the services of the Somers people, assesses every tract in that block by finding out mathematically the value of every other piece of land in the block.

The unit of value is fixed by the assessor by examining the owners and others interested in property values—the tenants, for instance—and when once the unit of value is fixed, every other piece of property is valued in proportion to the unit.

The operation of the system consists not alone of the figures made, but of the experience from years of study as to the matter of "front foot" value according to depth of lot, and to the ratio of increase or decrease toward more or less valued corners of the block.

After the values of the various tracts are fixed by the Somers tables, the figures, plainly set down, are placed before the board of equalization for its action, and it is not a matter of guesswork, but a statistical table, ascertained by mathematical calculation.

The advantage of such a system should be obvious to even the most obtuse. There could be no complaint after the tables of values were finished. The board of equalization would have practically nothing to do but approve the assessments, as they are based on absolute fact and impartial figures.

The system has been used in many cities throughout the country, and there has never been a charge that it was not a fair and just method of calculating the assessments. In Houston, where it has been in use for some years, it is claimed that no other city in the world has so proper an assessment as that city.

And the initial cost to the city would be very little, compared to the value to the taxpayers. It is true that it might change the assessments of some, but that could only be in the interest of fairness to all. And it might materially reduce our tax rate.

The shipment of ammunition to Tampico has caused a situation which is all-engrossing interest at Washington. And no one seems to know what will be the outcome. To seize the port of Vera Cruz was nothing more, nor less than an act of war. But to refuse Huerta permission to receive arms through that port, while declaring the port of Tampico open to shipments of arms to the rebels, may be considered by Huerta as violating the armistice. And what will he do then?

Mr. Ledyard of the New Haven directorate said that it was not true that the directors were "dummies," and that he, for one, frequently opposed Mr. Morgan. But it must have been somewhat like a terrier, snapping at the tail of a mastiff, as we never heard that Morgan did anything to Ledyard.

The man who stole Mona Lisa from the Louvre got eighteen months imprisonment. He should have come to Mexico and his absurd claim of being actuated by "patriotism" in his theft would have been received with some consideration.

A spectacular death came to two French army aviators, when their aeroplane, all ablaze, fell from the height of a half mile. Must have looked like the fiery chariot of old to the spectators, and would have caused a revival in the black belt of Mississippi.

President Wilson told the Anna-polis graduates that "I pray God the boys at Vera Cruz may not have to fight any more," which was about as disappointing a statement as could have been imagined for the embryonic heroes.

Many Witnessed Review of Troops.

This morning on the old cavalry grounds just north of the Ninth Infantry Camp took place the review of the troops under command of Colonel C. J. Crane, consisting of the Ninth Infantry and the two batteries of artillery. The review began at 8 o'clock, during which the 9th Infantry Band furnished music and the troops were viewed as they passed in procession, after which the various companies were inspected by their commanders. The 1200 or more soldiers participating in the review presented an inspiring scene and proved an enlightenment to many who had never before witnessed a review of this kind.

Funeral of Mrs. F. McN. Reid.

The funeral of Mrs. Florence McN. Reid, who died at her home in this city on Thursday evening, took place from the family residence to the Episcopal church yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. At the home the casket occupied a place amid a mound of beautiful flowers, which were banked high on every side and expressed aptly the grief of the many admirers of the deceased at being compelled to part with her. Among the floral tributes were a number of beautiful designs. The procession from the home to the church was a long one. The obsequies at Christ church comprised the regular Episcopal burial service, the ceremonies being conducted by Revs. Cook, Ward and Watts, the latter being chaplain of the Ninth Infantry, while the music was furnished by the Episcopal choir. At the grave services were also conducted and then the remains were laid to rest in Mother Earth, and mounded above the last sleeping place of a good and beloved woman was built a mound of beautiful flowers as bowed heads and moistened eyes stood beside the mound. The active pall-bearers were: Messrs. August C. Richter, L. J. Christen, Joe Leven, Decker, John Colman, G. C. Woodman, and P. J. MacMahon.

Deceased was an honored member of Benavides Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, and the members of that organization attended the services at the church in a body.

CANTELOUPES IN S. W. TEXAS

Thousands of Cars Should be Shipped Out Every Season, Returning Millions of Money.

Some two or three years ago a car of canteloupes was loaded at a lower valley point the 15th of May, setting on the track for $2,400.

Rushed to maturity by the use of fertilizer, cars may be loaded the 20th of May to the first of June by the train load, and that early they would have all the country north and east for a market. In fact, that is about the time they are being planted at Rocky Ford. The Imperial Valley is the only region which might compete as to time of maturity, and it is the far west for an even break upon the markets of the middle west, to say nothing of the east. Florida? A humid atmosphere does not put sugar and flavor into the canteloupes; hence, in the matter of quality—a very important consideration, Florida is not in it with Southwest Texas. While it is possible to irrigate the sugar and flavor out of a cantaloupe, like the weather-clerk rains it out in Florida and East Texas, and while the Southwest Texas grower often does this, there is no reason why he should except that he does not know any better.

About the only drawback to the cantaloupe industry in the section under consideration, is the aphid or melon-house; and it must be admitted that this pest is a serious handicap. At the same time, they have it to deal with wherever the fruit is grown, and a good deal may be done to minimize its ravages. Forcing maturity is one thing which helps, and using less water in irrigation, along with wider spacing, is another.

At present the U. S. Department of Agriculture is experimenting with the "lady-bug," as an offset to the aphid. I am told that some experiments in the Imperial Valley along this line have been most encouraging.

The quality of the Southwest Texas cantaloupe is unexcelled on earth, and in view of extreme earliness upon a wide range of market, thousands of cars should go out from Southwest Texas every season, returning more money than onions have ever done. Another advantage is that they leave the land ready for succeeding crops the same season.

In territory tributary to the International & Great Northern Railway, between San Antonio and Laredo, there are planted this season some 700 acres, and if the deal is successful, the acreage will be increased enormously another season. I will add that damage to irrigation by too much water comes by trillity near maturing time. East Texas and Florida sometimes grow good cants, if there happens to be a dry spell at maturing time. The irrigator should be careful not to make a wet spell at this time.

Partly from lack of knowledge as to proper packing, and partly because of lack of sufficient acreage to load cars at the right stage as to condition, there has been some disappointment on the market by Southwest Texas growers. Until they learn that "cants" must be handled like eggs, they will continue to have this trouble.

A WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE

With Newbro's Herpicide

While there are no thrills in the narration of Mrs. P. T. Nichols, 623 Broad St., Beloit, Wis., her story is nevertheless one of amazing interest. "Stricken with neuritis and erysipelas, I lost all my hair. My doctor recommended Newbro's Herpicide. I used six or eight bottles, and now have a fine head of thick curly light brown hair. Not a gray hair in my head. This is the more remarkable as I am middle-aged."

While the results which follow the use of Newbro's Herpicide are always more or less astonishing, they are always natural. Herpicide destroys the glandular germ, stimulates the flow of blood to the hair follicles and keeps the scalp perfectly healthy. It makes possible a natural and luxuriant growth of hair, except in cases of chronic baldness.

While remedies said to be "every bit as good" as Newbro's Herpicide are frequently offered, one should insist upon having the original germ destroyer, Herpicide. That is genuine. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

For sale at all drug stores. One dollar size bottles are guaranteed. Applications may be obtained at good barber shops. Send 10c in postage for sample to Newbro's Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich. (Adv.)

WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Find Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time," says Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering from womanly troubles. I could not get up, without pulling at my hair, and I was in bed most of the time. I could not do my housework."

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well off all my troubles."

Cardui goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the ed, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you. At all druggists.

CENTENNIAL OF NEW HARMONY.

New Harmony, Ind., June 6.—United States senators, governors and other men of national prominence are to gather in this little town on the Wabash during the week beginning tomorrow to take part in a celebration of the centennial anniversary of the founding of New Harmony, which was the first notable attempt in America to establish a community based on the theories of socialism and co-operation. The attempt was a failure, though some of the principles of the founders have been carried out by the members of the community down to the present day.

The community was founded originally by the Harmonists, a sect which originated in Wurtemberg about 1780. The founders were George and Frederick Rapp. The members of the sect held their property in common and considered marriage a civil contract. In 1805 the Rapps and a number of their followers emigrated to America, and settled first in Butler county, Pennsylvania. In 1814 they moved to this section, where they purchased 27,000 acres of land and founded a community which they called Harmony. Ten years later they sold their land to Robert Owen, and returning to Pennsylvania, settled at Economy, a few miles north of Pittsburgh.

The New Harmony movement, which attracted world-wide attention, dates from the time that Robert Owen acquired control of the community and sought to put into practice his theories of socialism. Owen, a native of North Wales, was one of those unfortunate men who lived in advance of his time. His entire life was devoted to various plans for the benefit of his fellow-men, and yet he is remembered as having been a failure.

He is known as the founder of English socialism. His views were the result of his own practical and successful employment of men in large factories, during which he came to realize the desirability of better relations between capital and labor. Owen was but 19 years old when he became manager of a cotton mill employing 500 operatives. Under his direction the mill became noted for the excellence of its work. The first American cotton ever sent to England was used by him.

Mr. Owen married and settled in New Lanark, Scotland. Here he became the possessor of one of the largest cotton mills in the country and began to work out his theories in regard to labor. He viewed with dismay the social conditions among his people and began to plan reforms. His built better homes for them, induced them to become cleanly and to spend their money to advantage. He established a store where they could buy the best goods at the lowest possible price, and he strongly urged a self-respecting spirit among them.

New Lanark became one of the notable places for statesmen and reformers to visit, and among the notable persons who went to see Owen's work was the future Emperor Nicholas of Russia. When Owen began to propose plans for the establishment of co-operative colonies, the Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria, was one of those who became deeply interested in his projects.

To carry his plans into effect Owen himself came over to America. In 1824 he purchased the town of Harmony from the Rapps and here he established the first non-religious community in the New World. On January 12, 1826, a constitution known as "The New Harmony Community of Equality" was adopted. On July 4 of the same year Owen declared his famous Declaration of Mental Independence against the trinity of man's oppressors: "Private Property, Irrational Religion, and Marriage."

But the men and women attracted to New Harmony were enthusiastic the Owen himself, persons with entirely impractical ideas, and advantages of every sort. After several years of hard work Mr. Owen abandoned all hope of success here. He returned to London and spent the remainder of his life in writing and working for socialism and co-operation. He brought about shorter hours for factory workers and served to uplift the working classes by his constant and generous labors.

Despite the failure of his first plans the community of New Harmony still exists as a monument to Mr. Owen's philanthropy. Though many of the socialist theories on religion and other subjects have been abandoned by the members of the community, the principles of co-operation have been carried out successfully. During the century of its existence New Harmony has been the home at one time or another of many men and women who have become widely known for their efforts to better the condition of humanity.

The Remodeled Dixie.

Mrs. Wm. E. Dixie, the outstanding and indefatigable proprietor of the Dixie Theater, has made some wonderful improvements in the theater, which is now one of the most up-to-date in this section of the state. The building is floored throughout, an improvement which will be appreciated by those who attend. The ventilation has been greatly improved, and in every part of the auditorium, which will seat 800, there is an abundance of fresh, cool air. Nine fire exits have been made, and the house can be entirely emptied in a few minutes. With the roof and side openings and the ten large oscillating fans, the atmosphere is kept constantly changed. The lobby on Salinas avenue is prettily painted in white, and the front facing Jarvis plaza opens on Farragut street with two large exit doors. Two of the new 100-watt high-power electric lights will make the exterior light as day. A five-piece orchestra has been employed, and a modern, first-class, well-balanced film service has been secured. Courteous treatment is assured to all, and the opening tonight will no doubt be attended by a large audience, who are sure to be pleased.

Excursion Rates to the Coast.

As will be seen by advertising elsewhere, the Texas-Mexican Ry. Co. today inaugurated their annual summer weekend excursion rates to the coast. A roundtrip rate of $3.20 is made on every Saturday from Laredo, good to leave Corpus Christi on the following Tuesday, giving excursionists two full days in Corpus. These should prove attractive rates and no doubt many Laredo people will take advantage of the opportunity of going down to the coast to hear what the sad sea waves are saying, hold tete-a-tetes with the mermaids and deport themselves in sockless suits in the incomparable surf.
